

MYSTERIOUS MIGRANT

wildlife
watch
www.wildlifewatch.org.uk

The death's-head hawk-moth is a rare migrant to the UK from southern Europe, with only a few found each year. They have a spooky reputation, thanks to their black wings and the skull pattern on their back. These mysterious moths produce a chemical that makes them smell like a bee, so they can sneak into beehives and steal honey!